Is Uncle Scrooge involved? One never knows.

Crowding out Capitalism!

Paris, 16.3.2011

Yes, he is.

Concerning the articles of John Maynard Keynes “Paying for the War” in The Times, November 1939, the agency managing the copyrights of The Times, after having granted permission to publish the articles, informed me that the copyrights for the articles are not hold by The Times but belong to the Estate of John Maynard Keynes. In fact, the copyrights belong to the Royal Economic Society.

Contrary to my previous belief that it is an affaire royale to receive the permission for publication of the 2 articles as the copyrights belong to the Royal Economic Society, this is not decisive. All copyrights of the RES are administered by Palgrave Macmillan and they don't allow me to publish them on an open access website. So please look them up in the Collected Writings of John Maynard Keynes which are easily accessible.

I intend to write a review article on these articles which shall be published in this place.
